

Consideration shall be given to instructional staff assignments that will allow as much time as possible for individual help for students who need additional assistance or personal attention, without neglecting the regular school program.